The theme was focused on ""Role of NGO (National & International) and Society in protecting Human Rights of Victims and Accused". The speaker for the session was Prof Niyati Pandey the Assistant Professor at Gujarat National Law University, Ahmedabad, Gujarat.

The session started with the welcome address by DrSukhvinder Singh Dari, Director of Symbiosis Law School, Nagpur. Appreciating the role of NGO's and their contribution in becoming the voices for underprivileged he elaborated on how society and justice system are interrelated in manifestation of human rights. He welcomed the Speaker and the students in the webinar.

Prof Pandey opened the session with the discussion on ecosystem of criminal justice system. Weaving a beautiful and sensible connection between state, societies, victims and accused. She unfolded the need for civil society and how it influences the decision making power of various institutions of the governance. Introducing the role of Non-government organizations at National and International level, she emphasized on basic ethical manner on which these organisation works. Discussing access to Justice and fair treatment she elaborated how 'Justice is zero sum game'. Making the interface between NGO's and criminal Justice system she demonstrated the state's accountability towards victims and how victim's rights are having minimal protection gear. Drawing parallels from various provisions of the statutes like Indian Penal Code, Criminal Procedural code and Indian Evidence Act, she concluded the session on positive note that our system will become more robust when young generation will take active part in bringing the positivity in the state's functioning. All the students were delighted from the wisdom gained.

Dr. Aarti Mohan Kalnawat, faculty, SLS, Nagpur moderated the program and introduced the resource person, Vote of thanks was proposed by Ms. Ekta Chandekar, a student of LLM, SLS Nagpur.
